

IN THE SPECIFICATION

In the Amendment After Office Action Mailed May 29, 2008, that was filed on November 26, 2008, Applicant tendered a Substitute Specification with an affirmative statement under 37 CFR §1.125(b) that the Substitute Specification included no new matter. Quite surprisingly, the Examiner found numerous instances in which new matter had apparently been added, and the Applicant has now discovered the reason therefore. The Substitute Specification submitted with the Amendment filed on November 26, 2008, was not the Specification for the present application, but was in fact the Specification for a related co-pending application of the Applicant. Applicant apologizes for the confusion. Applicant is now tendering herewith a substitute Substitute Specification in both a marked-up and clean version, in which section headings have been added, in which two paragraphs have been repositioned within the application to fall under the appropriate new section headings, and in which the subject matters of Claims 6-12, filed August 31, 2004, have been added to the Specification. Applicant's undersigned counsel makes an affirmative statement under 37 CFR §1.125(b) that this Substitute Specification includes no new matter.

Applicant therefore believes that the objections to the Specification that were set forth in the Final Office Action mailed March 19, 2009, have now been rendered moot.
